Recycling 352: Recycling Facility Design and Operation

This one day mini-course will describe the elements of recycling facility design, the integration of Green Building construction, and basic operational practices. The class will include discussions on the benefits and challenges of source separated and commingled container possessing. The afternoon portion of the class will feature a facility tour and hands-on processing session. Upon completion of this course, participants working toward PROP's Certified Recycling Professional Program will receive a Penn State certificate verifying the 0.3CEUs earned for the class.

Session Highlights

- Learn the ins and outs of planning for your own recycling facility
- Expert advice from top notch business planning experts
- Discuss various processing alternatives and their implications on collection and processing costs
- Informative tour of the National Recycling Coalition's 2008 Outstanding Government Program Award Winner
- Better understand how MRF design can facilitate processing efficiency
- See how Green Building techniques and materials can be incorporated into facility design
- Discuss the implications and importance of educational programs in increasing quantity and quality of recovered material
